

5/94 AAPB: Reproduction in Computer-Readable Form

(A report from the Standing Committee.)

1. The Synod asked the Standing Committee to consult parishes about whether they wanted AAPB in computer readable form. The results were reported last year: only 59 parishes were interested.

2. In the light of the responses, the Director of Education (the Rev L.W. Davies) was invited to say if the Anglican Education Commission Diocese of Sydney was willing (and able, with the General Synod authorities' approval) to provide AAPB in computer-readable form. Mr Davies responded -

“..... we believe that we will not be able to make it available for commercial reasons. The cost is unlikely to be recouped, even when allowing for considerably more interest than has been expressed thus far.

This response is premised on the assumption that we would be required to take the commercial risk involved in production by providing all costs. If either up front funding, or shortfall funding is proposed, the matter could be reviewed.”

3. Further to last year's report, a few corrections need to be made.
- (a) The holder of the copyright for AAPB is the General Synod's Anglican Church of Australia Trust Corporation.
 - (b) Under a Publisher's Agreement, the Anglican Education Commission Diocese of Sydney may reprint AAPB until 2007.
 - (c) Reproduction guidelines have been issued from time to time on behalf of the Anglican Church of Australia Trust Corporation: the latest were sent to our parishes on 11 January 1994.
 - (d) Under the reproduction guidelines "For Special Occasion Use" (for "once-only" occasions), services in whole or in part may be reproduced without further permission or payment of a fee, provided 10 conditions are met (see the guidelines).
 - (e) Under the reproduction guidelines "For Ongoing Use", no printer or publisher may print or reproduce AAPB or any of the services in that book in any form without the written permission of the Anglican Church of Australia Trust Corporation. Permission may be granted only where 9 conditions are met, including the offering of the printing job to the Trust's publisher.
